German Practice in International Law

2020

Stefan Talmon

University of Bonn

Customary international law is based on State practice. This book presents the international law practice of Germany, the world's fourth-largest economy and powerhouse of the European Union, which makes an important contribution to the creation and development of customary international law. It is the first and only presentation of German practice in international law in English. The book combines a case study approach, providing analysis and commentary on Germany's practice, with a classic digest of primary materials, including diplomatic correspondence, statements, and court decisions. The book is an ideal complement to other compilations of international law practice and is an essential resource for scholars and practitioners of international law. It will also be of interest to scholars of international relations, politics, and diplomatic studies.

1. Foundations and functions of international law 2. States and their organs 3. Inter-state political and economic relations and transactions 4. State jurisdiction and immunities 5. State responsibility and liability 6. Antarctica, sea, air and space 7. Individuals, their human rights and their international criminal responsibility 8. Natural resources and the environment 9. The United Nations and other international organisations 10. Use of force, Arms control and disarmament 11. International disputes and their settlement Annex 1. Notable statements on international law by Germany in 2020 Annex 2. International agreements concluded by Germany in 2020 Index.
